The Philosophy of Language
by G. E. Hughes

The first of these is the fact that the world is not a uniform whole, but is divided into many different parts, each of which has its own characteristics and its own laws.
 This is the case with the human mind, which is not a single entity, but is composed of many different faculties, each of which has its own powers and its own limitations. It is this diversity of faculties that makes the human mind so interesting and so wonderful.

The second of these is the fact that the human mind is not a passive receiver of impressions, but is an active and creative power. It is this activity that makes the human
 wonderful. It is this activity that makes the human mind so interesting and so wonderful. It is this activity that makes the human mind so interesting and so wonderful.
