Handwritten text on a long, narrow strip of paper, possibly a scroll or a page from a book. The text is written in a cursive script, likely a historical form of Chinese or Japanese. The strip is oriented vertically in the image, with the text running from top to bottom. The paper is aged and yellowed, and the text is dark and somewhat faded. The strip is placed on a light-colored background with a faint grid pattern.

The text on the left page is written in a dense, cursive script. It appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly related to the diagram above. The text is arranged in several columns, with some lines starting with a small symbol or letter. The ink is dark and the paper shows signs of age.

The text on the right page continues the content from the left page. It is also written in a dense, cursive script. The layout is similar to the left page, with multiple columns of text. The handwriting is consistent with the left page, suggesting a single scribe. The text is well-aligned and fills most of the page area.
