Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a list or account, spanning the top half of both pages. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a list or account, spanning the middle section of both pages. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading.

Handwritten text at the bottom of both pages, possibly a signature or a date, written in the same cursive script as the rest of the document.

The first part of the proof is to show that the sum of the angles of a triangle is equal to two right angles. This is done by drawing a line through one of the vertices parallel to the opposite side.
 The angles formed are then shown to be equal to the angles of the triangle.

The second part of the proof is to show that the sum of the angles of a quadrilateral is equal to four right angles.
 This is done by drawing a diagonal line which divides the quadrilateral into two triangles. The sum of the angles of each triangle is then shown to be equal to two right angles.
 Therefore the sum of the angles of the quadrilateral
 is equal to four right angles.

The third part of the proof
 the angles of a polygon of n sides is equal to $(n-2)$ right angles. This is done by drawing $(n-2)$ diagonals from one vertex to all the other vertices. This divides the polygon into $(n-2)$ triangles. The sum of the angles of each triangle is then shown to be equal to two right angles. Therefore the sum of the angles of the polygon is equal to $(n-2)$ right angles.

The fourth part of the proof
 the angles of a circle is equal to four right angles.
 a diameter of the circle and a tangent line at one of the ends of the diameter.
 shown to be equal to two right angles. Therefore the sum of the angles of a circle is equal to four right angles.

The brain is the seat of the mind and the source of all our thoughts and feelings. It is a very delicate organ and must be protected from injury. The skull is the bony covering of the brain and is made of several pieces of bone. The brain is surrounded by a fluid called cerebrospinal fluid which cushions it and carries away waste products.
 The brain is divided into three main parts: the cerebrum, the cerebellum, and the brain stem. The cerebrum is the largest part and is responsible for most of our thinking and feeling.
 The cerebellum is smaller and is responsible for our balance and coordination.
 The brain stem is the part of the brain that connects the cerebrum and cerebellum to the rest of the body. It contains the brain's respiratory and circulatory centers.

The first thing I did was to go to the bank and get some money out of the machine. I was a bit nervous at first but it went well. I then went to the post office
 to get some stamps
 and then to the library to borrow a book. I was a bit late for my class but I managed to get there in time. The teacher was very nice and we had a good lesson.
 I was a bit tired but I enjoyed it. I will go back soon.
